REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Jefferson City, Oct. II.—Missouri, while not generally considered much of a fish and game State, realized in the year 1995 the sum of $50-$10.21 for the fish, game, fors, frogs, terraphs and turtles which were shipped to the market by its 11st counties. In this total not a pound is included of the large amount which represents home consumption.

The figures were made public to-day from the State Labor Bureau and will be used in the annual report for 186, which is nearly ready for the printer.

It is conceded by the Washington authorities that Missouri ranks first in frogs, and that the frogs of this State are larger and have a better taste than those which are placed on the markets eisewhere. Many more pounds are shipped than returns show, as most snappers pack them in a barrel with fish and turtles and label all fish.

Head disamond-back terraphs are shipped from four counties of the State, and when they reach Eastern markets bring fancy process. Turtles of large sizes are captured wholesale in the swamps of Southeast Missouri and shipped North.

The streams of Missouri furnish nearly every known variety of firesh water fish and they are shipped in time to meet the weekly Friday demand.

FUR INDUSTRY.

The fur industry is large, and the shipments include all skins of skinds, which are now being raised at two or three points in the State. Rabbit skins have a value when properly treated.

The leading fur countles are: Greene, 6:661 pounds, Finklin, 22.29 pounds, 23.26 pounds, Linklin, 22.29 pounds, 23.26 pounds, and Fettis, 22.312 pounds.

While the total of fregs is only given as 15.462, the true figures if readily obtainable from the railroads would increase it to probably three tunes that amount. Funklin leads with 12.29 pounds, St. Louis, 159 pounds, Battes, 715 pounds, and Pike, 647 pounds. FUR INDUSTRY.

1.99 pounds, Bates, 715 pounds, and Poke, 517 pounds.
The leading turtle countles are: New Madrid, with 14.32 pounds: Danklin, with 8.119 pounds; Danklin, with 15.19 pounds; Nies, with 15.49; St. Louis, 1.59 pounds; Massissippi, with 1.20 pounds; St. Clair, with 1.109 pounds.
The four countres which shipped terraplus are, Penniscott, 8.29 pounds; New Madrid, 1.64 pounds; Danklin, 98 pounds, and Mississippi, 65 pounds.
